CLEAR SKIES THIS WEEK

Forecaster Promises Period of Real June Weather.

Special Bulletin Says Wet Season Is Practically Over Throughout the Country.

In a special bulletin issued last night Chief Moore, of the Weather Bureau, says that the wet season is practically over, and real June weather will be the programme for this week. The rainfall during the coming week will be below normal, and generally fair conditions will prevail throughout the country.

"There will be a continuation of showers Monday in Northern New England and Monday and Tuesday on the South Atlantic coast and in Florida," says the report.

"The general pressure distribution over the North American continent and adjacent oceans is such as to indicate the week as a whole will be one with less than the normal rainfall over practically the entire country and with temperatures near or above the normal over the Eastern and Southern States and the Middle West. A change to cooler weather will overspread the Rocky Mountain and Plateau regions and the Plains States during the first three days of the week, followed by rising temperature in these regions beginning Wednesday.

"A disturbance that is forming over the Plateau region will move eastward and reach the Atlantic States during the latter half of the week, but indications are it will not be attended by general rains."

Among those present who represented the newspapers were Messrs. Macdonald and Collins, of the Times; Stanley Milliken, of the Post; and Charles Gray, of the Washington Herald.

OLD LAW BEMOANED

Army and Navy Officers Discuss Mann Bill.

Army and navy officers are discussing with considerable bitterness the passage of the Mann measure abolishing the United States lighthouse board and taking the regulation of markings for mariners out of the hands of the military for good.

For sixty years the army and navy had complete control of lighthouses and other navigation markings, and every officer, especially in the navy, looked forward to the time when he would have one of the berths it provided.

After months of consideration, the bill was adopted Friday by the Senate, and all it needs is President Taft's signature. The President will probably appoint the members of the commission which is to succeed the lighthouse board early this week.

The bill also provides for the appointment of civilians to be placed in charge of the nineteen lighthouse districts.

END OF CONGRESS BY JULY 1 LIKELY

Republican Leaders See Work Nearly Done.

Republican leaders now see no reason why Congress should not adjourn the last week in June or by July 1.

All the administration bills that are to be passed upon at this time have gone through the House. Pending in the Senate are the land withdrawal bill, the Statehood bill, and the postal bank bill. The latter will be concurred in by the Senate as it has passed the House. Insurgent Senators object to some of its provisions.

They will deliver a speech or two in opposition, but will make no effort to prevent a vote.

Indications are that the postal savings bill will go through the Senate for approval the latter part of this week. As soon as the sundry bill has been passed by the Senate that body will return to the land withdrawal bill, the only important conservation measure that is to be acted upon at this time.

A withdrawal bill has already been passed by the House, and it is expected that an early agreement will be reached on this measure in conference.

The fate of the Statehood bill is undecided. The administration has strongly urged that Congress should not adjourn without admitting Arizona and New Mexico to the Union. The Statehood bill passed the House early in the session. It was reported to the Senate weeks ago, but so far its friends have been unable to get action on it.

There is a group of Western Senators, among them Senator Borah, of Idaho, who insist that there shall be a vote on Statehood before adjournment.

Only three supply bills remain to be passed.

TOWN CLOCK'S WEIGHT FALLS.

It Crashes Through Two Floors, Alarming Lock Haven.

Lock Haven, Pa., June 12.—The half-ton weight on the town clock in the tower of the court house in this city slipped from the iron hook last night and crashed through two floors, breaking three-by-eight joists as if they were straws, and landed on the first floor in the office of County Superintendent I. N. McCloskey, in front of the temple of justice, crushing some of the furniture to splinters and filling the room with wreckage.

Had the superintendent been in the office he might have been killed. The noise of the crash brought a large crowd to the court house.

WANT NONPOLITICAL TARIFF.

Many Prominent Commercial Bodies Would End Agitation.

New York, June 12.—The National Tariff Commission Association, which includes more than seventy of the principal commercial bodies of the country, has begun a movement to secure legislation by the present Congress which will prevent tariff agitation being continued during the summer, and figure in the Congress election. In this the association has been backed up by some prominent business men, the legislation favored generally being along the line of a tariff commission.

President Cobb, of the association, says that an investigation made by the association clearly shows that the country wants tariff questions carefully and independently investigated by an independent and permanent board, that a large portion of the people are dissatisfied with the tariff law as passed, and that a congressional session is established with adequate Federal support, much of the discord and dissension in the Republican party will be allayed.

Open canned fruit or vegetables and pour into a dish several hours before they are served.

AGREE ON RAIL BILL

Senate and House Conferees Get Together.

THE FACT IS ONLY TENTATIVE

Report May Be Sent to Respective Houses To-morrow, and Leaders Expect White House Approval by Last of Week—Compromise on Stocks and Bonds Provision.

A tentative agreement on the administration railroad bill was reached by the House and the Senate conferees last night.

There will be another meeting of the conference committee to-day, when it is believed that a final agreement will be reached.

The indications are the report will be made to the respective Houses to-morrow. The leaders are hopeful of sending the bill to the White House for approval the latter part of the week.

The tentative agreement reached on the railroad bill came after a session that had lasted practically all day. The questions in controversy were those relating to the long and short haul clause, the Senate amendment authorizing the Interstate Commerce Commission to suspend for a period of ten months a rate that has been challenged, and certain other minor provisions.

Holds Good Parts.
Summarizing the measure as it will be reported to the House and Senate, a member of the conference committee said that in the main it would represent "all that was good in the two bills, together with the so-called progressive amendments adopted by the Senate."

At yesterday's meeting, the compromise on the provision relating to stocks and bonds was adopted. This provides for a commission to make an inquiry into alleged stock-watering by all concerns that are affected by the law, namely railroad companies, telegraph and telephone companies, and express and sleeping car companies.

The provisions of the House bill, giving the Interstate Commerce Commission supervision over the issuance of stocks and bonds, was thrown overboard, because of the certainty that if adopted they would provoke Democratic Senators to a long debate.

Included in the conference will be section 1 of the House bill, giving the Interstate Commerce Commission jurisdiction over the practices of railroads, other than those having a bearing on rates.

Supreme Court Power.
There was also an agreement on the House provision, authorizing the majority of the Supreme Court, instead of the Chief Justice, as directed in the Senate bill to make assignments of judges to the Commerce Court of Appeals.

While a final decision has not yet been reached on this point, it is practically settled that the Cummins amendment, giving the Interstate Commerce Commission power to suspend rates for a period of ten months, will be adopted.

The provision in the Senate bill, placing the burden of proof on railroads as to the reasonableness of rates questioned by shippers, was agreed to after a brief debate.

A substitute provision for the Senate and House amendments placing telegraph and telephone companies under the authority of the commission has been written.

The Madden amendment in the House bill authorizing a physical valuation of railroad property was eliminated. The provision proposing the creation of a commission to inquire into stock watering is regarded as highly important. Under it the government, it is expected, will conduct the most thorough investigation into this subject that has ever been undertaken in the United States. The President is authorized to appoint the commission, and he is not restricted as to the personnel.

SEEKS COSTA RICAN REPORT.

Knox Wants to Know Island's Attitude Toward Protocol.

Secretary of State Knox yesterday sent instructions to Gustavus L. Monroe, Jr., chargé d'affaires of the American Legation at San Jose, Costa Rica, asking for a report on the alleged opposition in the Costa Rican Congress to the protocol recently signed in Washington by representatives of Panama and Costa Rica submitting a boundary dispute between the two countries to the arbitration of Chief Justice M. W. Fuller, of the Supreme Court of the United States.

Mr. Knox also directed Mr. Monroe to inform the government of Costa Rica that he can hardly believe that this report truly reflects the attitude of the members of the Costa Rican Congress toward the protocol. This government regarded the protocol as fair and equitable to both parties to the dispute.

Only three supply bills remain to be passed.

Until further notice store will be closed at 5:30 p. m. daily.
